Mid-level Industrial Designer

We are seeking a mid-level staff Industrial Designer at our San Francisco Bay area office. Preferably with 4+ years experience in point-of-purchase design. This role involves developing design ideas from basic concepts to fully working design solutions, and following the development of the design through to production.

A qualified candidate should be highly creative, self-motivated, and possess the ability to manage multiple projects and work well in a team. This person will serve as project lead and have the ability to contribute from research through to prototype and production. Exceptional communication and interpersonal skills are an essential part of this role. The job involves juggling multiple projects and working with tight deadlines, so flexibility is key to applicant's success.

Qualifications:

An outstanding candidate for this opportunity will have the following qualifications:

- Bachelor's Degree in Industrial design
- 4+ years product design experience, (in POP is a plus)
- Strong concept/sketching/design skills is very important
- Experience with materials used in POP and fixture design
- Proficiency in the following Mac-based software programs:
 - Photoshop
 - Illustrator
 - Cinema 4D (or ability to learn easily)
 - FormZ

Compensation and benefits are competitive; salary will be commensurate with experience and ability. All offers are contingent on the successful candidate passing a pre-employment drug screening test.
